

DREAD ISLE Wildlife Guide

Nancy Drew®: Ransom of the Seven Ships has Nancy travelling to DREAD ISLE in the Bahamas, where forests and beaches are home to a variety of animals. Some may be friendly, even helpful, while others can spell grave danger for an unsuspecting sleuth. So prepare yourself with this guide.

Vervet Monkey - Once part of an intelligence study conducted by scientists, these super smart monkeys are known for their playful nature and “sticky fingers.” They are mischievous, but if you understand their language, they may be helpful.

Octopus - These underwater creatures can be found on the reefs adjacent to the isle. Though octopuses are often harmless, they have a variety of defense mechanisms that can be deadly.

Shark — The vast Caribbean Sea is home to a large population of sharks. Studies have indicated that they may possess powerful problem-solving skills, social complexity and curiosity. Be on the lookout for these fierce creatures, or your first swim may be your last!

Yellow-Headed Amazon Parrot - Properly trained, these birds can speak and recite a variety of phrases. Only a few still remain on the island, but it would seem at least one of them might make a valuable ally.

There's plenty more wildlife for you to discover on your quest. Watch your step, 'cause you never know what's hiding in the underbrush.

Check the ‘Dare to Play’ blog for more information about upcoming games and behind-the-scenes information.

Nancy Drew Dossier™: Lights, Camera, Curses!, our newest casual mystery game, is coming to retail this May! Try this fun series for a new Nancy Drew mystery experience. Order online at www.HerInteractive.com or look for the game in all major retailers.

